- ayat-e-nusool wal-hayat e hayat e syedna yazeed pdf 199. 02-10-2007, 03:58 AM Totally agree with Amir. But at the same time, these 5th grade kids know the basics of Islam and their knowledge about the Qur'aan, their legal rights and duties, and their fundamental responsibilities. Why is that this new-found confidence or blaring ignorance, can suddenly engulf even the most learned and learned? Ayat-e-Nusool, wal-Hayat, Siyasi dua, Ruh-e-Akhlaq, Tahmimu'sin, Zakhiraat, Furqaan, etc., etc. I just wonder what these people are going to do next. It seems that by not giving them the leeway to continue with their own interpretations, and by simply telling them of what the real Wahabi Islamists are taught and believed in, that they are going to be following the letter of the law, they are going to realize that their blind imitation of the 'mujaddid's' hadith is not the best or most authentic hadith. True Muslim youth need a lot of encouragement to pursue the knowledge they need to be great Muslims.

Lets all try to be more patient and understand these 'youth'. jaybee 02-10-2007, 04:18 AM What are they going to do next? Really? One thing to be done, is to create more awarenness of this problem and educate them about the reason for all of this. I agree with the main premise of this article. They are just a bunch of kids with high self esteem issues. Because of this they are influenced by the extreme Wahabi influence in Pakistan and elsewhere. We all know that in Pakistan all young people are being brainwashed. They are following a new fashion to be considered Mujahid. It doesn't matter who they are, they want to be like the 'mujaddid' with lots of money and power. They want to be like the people who built the country and make it great. If we are honest with ourselves, we know that the Taliban are not the only problem. We need to be honest and admit that all of this is not of God. We need to be honest and accept that 82157476af
